

KURILPA VISION

We'd like to see our suburb grow so that visitors say "Wow! This is a beautiful place" when they view it from the free telescopes found in the roof-top gardens of tall apartment buildings.

In our vision for the future there is lots of open space with people walking and playing sport. There are fun things to do like water parks, a wave pool, tennis courts, and a mini golf course. There is a scooter track and sports fields for girls and guys like net ball and basket ball.

Along the river paths people are exercising and walking their dogs. There are better footpaths, more bike trails and less traffic. There is plenty of public transport and a school bus.

In the nature walks and wildlife corridors, the native fauna – birds, insects and the Kuril-pa (our water rat) – all live together. There are plenty of trees and bird baths to encourage feathered visitors. The community gardens are full of bees and families growing food that's fresh and healthy.

From the viewing towers, you see art trails telling Aboriginal histories. There is a well-balanced view of parks, houses and apartments. There are quirky new designs and old buildings too. There are churches celebrating different religions, and shelters and food for the homeless.

On certain days, visitors see the open air markets, where you can buy food that comes from different cultures. There are community events like Paniyiri and the Kurilpa Derby and the school Fiesta day – all full of people sharing their multiculturalism.

Come down to ground level to visit art galleries, museums, theatres and cinemas. Everything is convenient and within walking distance. If you need to catch a bus, the stops are also within walking distance.

What you see through the roof-top telescopes is amazing but on the ground it's even better. What you feel is a relaxed place, tolerant of our wonderful differences; a place where you are always very welcome.

This is our vision for Kurilpa.
